Is there a social media post (yours or someone else's) from 3+ years ago that you still remember today? 5+? 10+? Why do you think it stuck with you over time?

What are your earliest memories of navigating your home feed, profile, and direct messages within social media platforms?

Are social media platforms free to use? Why or why not? If not, what are some of the costs?

Who is your ideal audience?

Are artists/creators required to have a social media presence? Can social media be art, or is it limited to promoting or distributing art?

If your favorite social media platform was an imaginary friend, what would they be like? Where would you hang out? What would they wear? For extra credit, try journaling what a conversation with them would sound like.

Do you have a current "dream post" that you imagine sharing someday? Alternatively, are you waiting and watching for any particular account to drop/release a post?

When you look in a mirror, the reflection you see is both exactly you and exactly the opposite of you. In what ways does your social media profile represent the true you? In what ways is it the opposite of you?
